BULLETIN

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29.—Five bombs have been dropped in the international settlement by Japanese bombing planes, killing one Chinese woman and doing minor property damage, Col. R. S. Hooker, commanding American marines in Shanghai, reported to the Navy department today.

Col. Hooker's dispatch, which was timed at 8:05 a. m. (EST.) added that at that hour the north station in Shanghai, where the heaviest fighting has occurred, was "demolished but still in possession of the Chinese."

SEEK OTHER AID

LONDON, Jan. 29.—Italy and France have been asked to join Great Britain and the United States in representation to Japan over violation of the international settlement in Shanghai the British foreign office announced this evening.

LONDON, Jan. 29.—British Consul General Brennan informed the foreign office tonight that fighting at Shanghai had ceased promptly at 8 o'clock tonight, Shanghai time, in accordance with terms of the truce arranged by him and United States Consul General Edwin Cunningham.

GENEVA, Jan. 29.—With a stern admonition from Acting President Joseph Paul Boncour to "act" in the Sino-Japanese clashes instead of debating whether or not it should do so, the League of Nations council adjourned this evening until tomorrow morning.

DESTROYERS MOVE

MANILA, Jan. 29.—Eleven United States destroyers, 12 submarines and several Auxiliary craft remained here today after four destroyers had departed under full steam for Shanghai.

All U. S. ships were prepared to leave instantly for Shanghai should such a move be ordered.

Justo Caba Chen, president of a Chinese national organization in the Philippines, announced that group would pay expenses to Shanghai of any Chinese desiring to enlist in the Chinese army.

Chinese in the Philippines have hoisted all Japan-made goods, particularly textiles.

BURN HINDUS ALIVE, REPORT

Tales of Bloodthirsty Lawlessness Follow Uprising of Moslems in East.

DELHI, Jan. 29.—Scores of Hindus were burned alive today as angry mobs of heavily armed Moslems burned and looted their way through the state of Kashmir in a revolutionary march on Srinagar, capital, according to reports received.

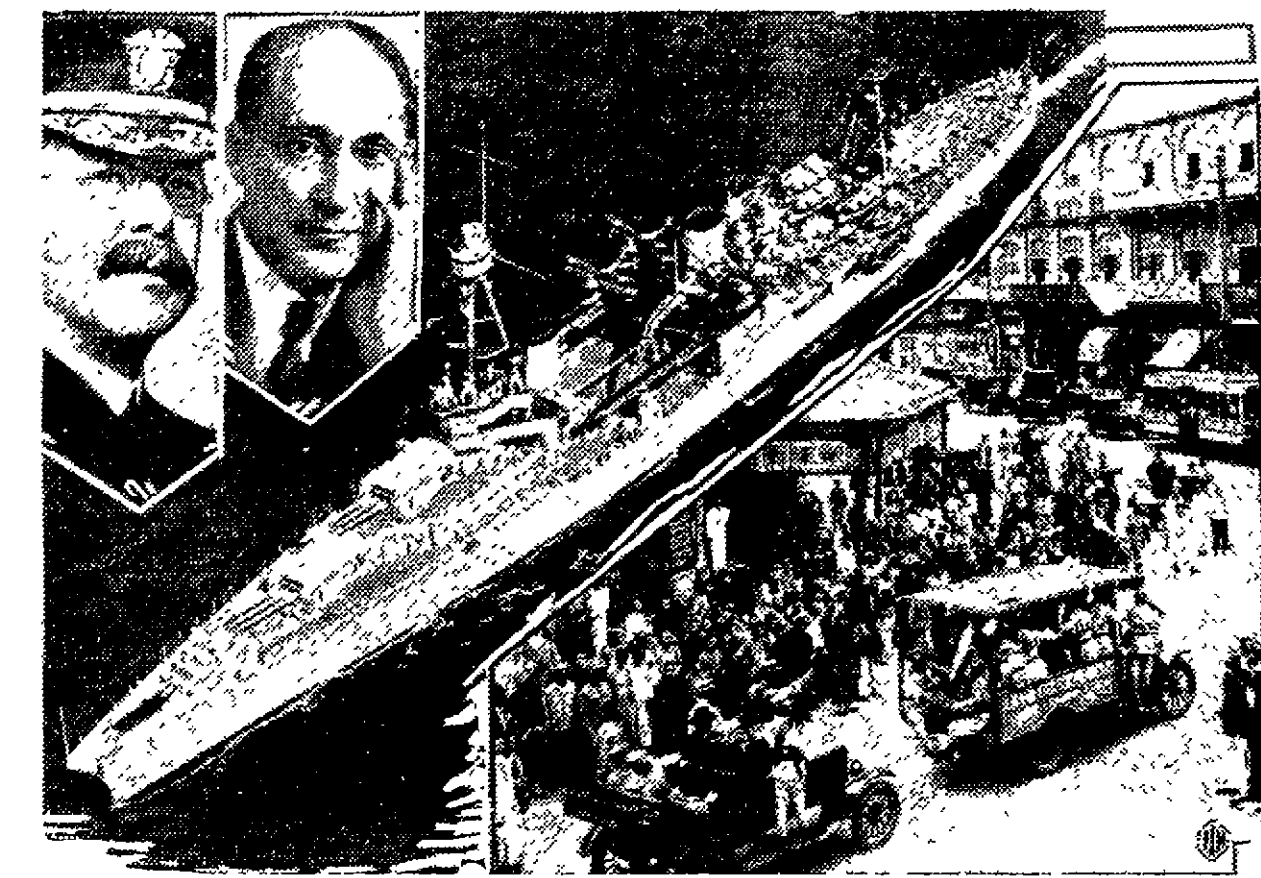

A staggering tale of blood-thirsty lawlessness was told of the Moslem raids, aimed at overthrowing the Hindu government of the Maharajah of the wealthy state, Sir Hari Singh, known to the western world as the famous "Mir A" of the London $1,500,000 blackmail case of several years ago.

Temples were reported desecrated. The government was said to be paralyzed and powerless to act against the Moslem insurrection, in which between 15,000 and 20,000 were estimated to be taking part.

Refugees, helpless, sought shelter in British territory.

SMOKEHOUSE, HOGS RUINED BY FIRE

The smokehouse and six hogs, the property of George Richner of near Stoutsville, were destroyed by fire Thursday while meat was being smoked.

Cables and radios are buzzing to their fullest capacity as reports, protests and explanations are speeding from Shanghai to the foreign departments of every government in the world. This is a great time to watch your step and keep your powder dry.

For the first time in history, a belligerent nation has used the international concession in Shanghai as a military base for offensive operations against China.

Japan has done this and done it not in concert with nor in consideration of other nations equally interested here, but entirely on her own.

It is just as though the Jones family, occupying one apartment in a ten-flat building, used their apartment as the base for an attack on a flat building across the street. The occupants of the flat building successfully resist the attack and retaliate by carrying the fight back across the street and cleaning out not only Jones' apartment but the flats of the other nine families as well.

That's the way it looks to me just two hours off the boat.

BOMBS DROPPED

Bombs—Japanese bombs—have been dropping by mistake today within the boundaries of the international concession, endangering the lives of all neutrals, including thousands of American men and women.

But fortunately no casualties have been reported as yet although Japanese seaplanes—big as navy bombers—and carrying hundreds of pounds of detachable explosives have been hovering nearby and flying over the international concession all day on their way to and from objectives in the Chinese city.

American women daintily clad are watching the war spectacle from the roofs of Shanghai skyscrapers. And believe me, boys and girls, they're not big modern ones here.

Kibler To Cover
Brown's Trial

Franklin Kibler, court reporter for The Times Morning Times for the past two years, will cover the trial of Walker Brown, charged with the murder of John Kidney, Grange Hall high school teacher, which began Monday at 9 a. m.

Mr. Kibler, a native of this city, son of Mrs. Mary Arista Kibler, was at one time employed by The Herald, later going to work for The Daily Reporter at Dover, O., and advancing from there to the Toledo newspaper where he has made good. His familiarity with the court system at Toledo will aid him greatly in handling the murder case.

Mr. Kibler will be accompanied here by his wife, formerly Miss Helen Schear, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Schear.

Above are shown several scenes from Shanghai, Chinese city, now occupied by Japanese troops over which act serious international complications are expected.

Uncle Sam has taken steps to protect American lives and property by ordering the Asiatic fleet to the scene and today by ordering destroyers from Manila to speed toward the important city following deprivations Thursday.

Clark Denies, Bowsher Admits Filling Station Theft; Latter Has Record.

Richard Clark, 30, and Harold Bowsher, 25, enter pleas of not guilty and guilty, respectively, when they were arraigned before Judge E. C. France Friday on a charge of breaking and entering an inhabited dwelling in the night season and committing grand larceny. They were arrested Wednesday night by the sheriff's office after they had allegedly robbed the service station of Newell McNeal of Williamsport.

Clark's bond was fixed at $1,000 and Bowsher's at $2,000. Paul E. Adkins represented Clark while Bowsher had no attorney.

BLAMES HIMSELF

In making his plea of guilty Bowsher told the source that Clark was not guilty of the robbery that he was intoxicated when he Bowsher, broke into the station.

Bowsher said that he has been in trouble the greater part of his life but that this is the first time he has ever been arrested "dead to rights." He says that he has taken "trap" which belonged to someone else.

This boy has spent two years in the Boys' Industrial School at Lancaster, one year in the Arizona state prison and three and one-half years in the Kansas State prison for the criminally insane. On the latter charge he was blamed with pushing a man under a train causing his death. Bowsher denies that he committed the act.

Complaints against the men were sworn by McNeal.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29.—Congress is thoroughly concerned and apprehensive over the situation in the far east.

While the surface is calm and members are largely refraining from action or comment that might embarrass the administration, underneath there is resentment and indignation over the high-handed manner in which Japan has violated her treaties and broken her pledges concerning China.

APES GERMANY

A number of senators, in private comment, compared the Japanese invasion of China, particularly of Shanghai, with Germany's ruthless sweep across Belgium in the critical days of August, 1914.

The treaty to respect Belgium's neutrality was dismissed with the historical remark that it was "a scrap of paper."

The treaties to respect China's territorial and administrative integrity, solemnly signed in Washington in 1922, have similarly been reduced to "scrap of paper" by Japanese aggression and with them the Kellogg anti-war pact as well.

The events of the past week are likely to have several important results upon the policies of the American congress.

Sentence Youth One To 20 Years

Sesco Carper, 18, of Whisler, Guilty of Killing Father, to Serve Term in Mansfield Reformatory; Judge Reviews Case in Placing Sentence

Sesco Carper, 18-year-old youth and unfortunate victim of a twisted family life, was sentenced to the reformatory at Mansfield for a period of from one to 20 years, Thursday by Judge Frank Acton of Lancaster.

Judge Acton, before passing sentence, commented at some length upon the merits of the case. He reviewed the incident of the killing and observed that it was extremely incredible that the youth could wrest a shot gun from the father being at the disadvantage of grasping it by the barrel while the father had the advantage of a firm grip on the stock and hand-grips.

The judge stated that the jury's verdict of manslaughter was a considerate and merciful one. He admonished young Carper to obey the rules of the Mansfield institution and his record would have much to do with his parole privileges at the proper time.

Judge Acton praised counsel in the case for the dignified way in which it was conducted. He observed that George Vorys and Tom Renick, defense counsel, used every reasonable means to save the Carper boy from unwarranted prosecution. He praised the efforts of State's Attorney Russell Cunningham and John Silbaugh in diligently pursuing their duties in the case and upholding the safeguards thrown about society.

800 ATTEND COOKING SCHOOL THURSDAY; CROWD TODAY HUGE

Women Delighted at Instruction Given By Mrs. George O. Thurn During Sessions; Grant Prizes To Be Given This Afternoon.

"The bigger the crowd, the more we enjoy the Cooking School," Mrs. George O. Thurn declared yesterday, speaking for herself and her assistants after the closing of the successful third session of the week's program.

"This great response on the part of the women of Circleville and vicinity is one of the most flattering compliments to The Herald and our efforts. No wonder Circleville seems so alive and progressive. The women are that way about their housekeeping, and their interest is reflected all over the city."

THURONG ENTHUSIASTIC

Mrs. Thurn is justified in her enthusiastic comments for the audience which greeted her at the third session of The Herald Cooking School was the largest and most enthusiastic yet assembled for any women's activities in the city.

Long before the school began, at two o'clock, a large crowd of women had assembled. They numbered more than 800 when Mrs. Thurn came out on the stage to begin the afternoon's demonstrations. She spoke from her wide experience with practical and professional home making, on various topics ranging from dieting and reducing to newest ideas in cookery. The dishes which she prepared on the stage included macaroni and chicken croquettes, apple dumplings, egg and pimento sandwich and other recipes.

Reside these the recipes of which were given to the women in printed form, Mrs. Thurn discussed other dishes for home dinners and entertaining.

The new Early English dining table, of oak, from Stevenson's with tastefully arranged for dinner. The linen and cover were furnished by Jeffries & Colville. The china and silverware with crystal goblets from Mader Gift store, were properly arranged and with a beautiful cluster of flowers in the center from Brehmer Greenhouses, made an attractive setting and one that was highly complimented after the session ended, by hundreds who took the opportunity to go on the stage and talk to Mrs. Thurn and her assistant, Mrs. Nye.

Amusing and interesting questions from the question box kept Mrs. Thurn busy with lively and pointed answers. And between stirring, mixing, baking and garnishing at the kitchen work-table, Mrs. Thurn discussed the equipment with which her kitchen is furnished and the other handsome pieces displayed in the hall.

Remedies For Situation
Studied

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 29.—Governor George White responded today to a joint demand by Ohio's eight largest cities that he call a special relief session of the legislature to raise $21,000,000 for poor relief.

A series of conferences with his closest advisers was arranged, a special cabinet meeting was planned, and the state relief committee launched a state-wide investigation of reports that thousands of children are unable to attend school for lack of shoes.

STUDYING QUESTION

The governor, surprised by the suddenness of yesterday's unexpected meeting of city officials and welfare workers, told International News Service he may have a definite answer within a week. Temporarily, however, he stood pat on his old answer—"No."

Several conferences were to be held by the governor with Adjutant General Frank D. Henderson and Commerce Director Theodore Tangemann, two of his principal associates, after which a cabinet meeting was expected to be called for next week.

The investigation of school conditions, started by Director of Education Beverly O. Skinner and Major E. O. Braught, secretary of the relief committee, calls for every school district to make a formal report of the number of children not attending class due to lack of shoes, food and clothing.

STATEMENT VERIFIED

Superintendents were notified by Dr. Skinner that their reports must be in his office by Feb. 5. The inquiry was pushed with all possible speed after charges by Mrs. O. C. Bird of Athens, that 7,000 children are unable to attend classes in 10 counties, were supported at yesterday's meeting (Continued on Page Six.)

REMOVAL OF ROAD FOUGHT

Residents of Harrisburg Object To Diversion of Three C Highway in Village.

Residents of Harrisburg, Franklin co., are up in arms over the prospect of having the new Three C highway from Columbus to Cincinnati taken from their village.

The state highway department has intimated that the new road will be diverted to miss Harrisburg and the "whys and wherefores" of the matter are demanded by the residents.

To send the road in another direction will play havoc with their village, Harrisburg residents believe as much of the town's business comes from traffic on this road which runs directly through the place.

Two meetings have already been held on the question with a committee being appointed to consult the highway department.

Dr. M. J. Jones is chairman of the committee with J. H. McKinley, Robert H. Jones, J. J. Davis and A. H. Jones as members.

The committee is now engaged in securing signatures to a petition which will be completed and carry the names of citizens from Grove City to Washington, O. H.

Purcell To Be at Forward and Hegele at Center in C. B. L. Fray Here.

A large crowd of local sports fans is expected to be on hand this evening at the high school gymnasium to see Coach "Pete" Herberholz' Circleville high school Tigers battle the Delaware team in an attempt to gain second place in the Central Buckeye League. The Tigers are tied for second place with Marysville and a win will mean something.

Coach Herberholz announced today that his team is in the best of condition. The team in general has shown much improvement the past week in scrimmage sessions, both in offensive and defensive work.

The Red and Black lineup for this evening's game will probably be the same as in former contests with Purcell and Davis forwards, Hegele, center and Stout and White, guards.

Miss Rainsville is expected to win over the Logan girls team however it isn't a settled fact yet.

A preliminary game between the freshmen and eighth-grade is being arranged and expected to begin at 6:45 p. m. The girls game will follow at 7:15 and the boys' contest will probably get underway at 8:15 p. m.

Both fighters can hit like a mule and both can "take it." Levinsky, a crude boxer and an unorthodox puncher, depends almost solely on right-hand punches which he throws from all conceivable angles.

When the kingfish starts a punch he doesn't know where it is going to land and neither does his opponent. Three of these blows, labeled "I come to you out of nowhere," floored Tommy Loughran and started him on the road to fistic oblivion.

In four other recent starts Levinsky beat Paulino Uzcudun, Joe Sekyra and Jimmy Slattery, and lost a close one to Primo Camera after knocking "De Freeman" back on his heels several times.

Baer, however, is a better boxer than the kingfish the Livermore, Calif. giant should win the decision by the simple method of landing more punches. A year ago he was good enough to extend Ernie Schaaf to the limit, and Schaaf is just as tough as they come.

FEATHER KING LOSES $5,000

Battalino, Shorn of Title, Is Fined by National Boxing Group, Suspended.

CINCINNATI, O., Jan. 29.—Christopher "Bat" Battalino Hartford, Conn., featherweight champion who lost his title through inability to make the 126-pound weight limit, was much lighter today. In fact, he was relieved of $5,000 and placed under indefinite suspension by the Cincinnati boxing commission as a result of his "no contest" title bout with Freddie Miller here Wednesday night.

LOSES CROWN Shorn of his crown when he tipped the beam at 129 3/4, Battalino went down for the count three times before referee Lou Bauman, at the direction of the commission, rendered a "no contest" ruling in the third round.

Battalino's suspension will be effective in all states associated with the National Boxing association but will not include matches for which he has already signed contracts. General John V. Chinn, president of the national association, upheld the Cincinnati solons of the fistic art in their ruling.

Although the commission refused to recognize his claim to the title Miller was given a clean slate and will be compensated for his three rounds of work. The 2,000 spectators likewise will be refunded their money, all expenses be paid from the $5,000 fine.

READY TO PAY The commission's ruling resulted from a conference of officials, fighters and their managers. Anticipating a fine or suspension Hy Malley, Battalino's manager, informed the solons they were ready to pay any fine.

Londos is shown as he picked Stein up for one of the famous body slams which distinguish his customary performances. He was unable to continue, so Londos is still champion.

WOLVERINES DEFEAT OHIO

Daniels Leads Michigan to 38-25 Victory; Ohio's Team Looks Pitiful.

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 29.—Ohio State University's hopes for the basketball title of the big ten conference disappeared into thin air today with a 38 to 25 defeat received from the University of Michigan here last night.

The Wolverines, long a contender for first place, were practically eliminated from the picture by being where they were shuttled back to a tie with Illinois for fifth position while the Wolverines went into deadlock with Purdue for third.

Displaying unexpected speed and scoring ability, Michigan dribblers easily demonstrated their superiority to the 5,000 spectators and never were in danger of slipping to the short end of the count. An unexpected defense held the Wolverines' scoring from the floor until the closing minutes of the first half. During the second period Ohio was more successful but registered most of the double-deckers from range.

Executing flashy attack around Captain Norman Daniels. The Wolverines expected a little difficulty in eluding the sprint and gray defense and scored most of their points from within the 15-foot zone. The wedge formation, used by the Wolverines in their offensive drive, proved a mystery to the Buckeyes although it was much similar to the one they attempted to execute. Michigan's speedy breaks and the back-hand shots of Daniels rendered the Buckeyes helpless as they consistently hammered away at the hoop at long range.

CHAFFEUR'S REGISTRATION, LICENSE BRINGS QUESTIONS

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 29.—The motor vehicle bureau is receiving many inquiries daily relative to the registration and licensing of chauffeurs, says Chalmers R. Wilson, head of the Bureau.

The present laws of the state require that anyone operating a motor vehicle as an employee or for hire is required to register annually and pay an annual fee of $3.00. A former opinion of the Attorney General's office held that all drivers who come within the exact wording of the definition of a chauffeur were subject to the law. In a later opinion it was held, however, that "The operation of a motor vehicle of the employer by an employee, which operation is incidental, intermittent and secondary to his employment for some other purpose, does not necessarily make such employee a chauffeur within the meaning of the law."

This would apply, for instance, to a store clerk who may occasionally drive a delivery truck. Colonel Wilson points out that the Motor Vehicle Bureau is administrative only, and the enforcement duties fall on local authorities throughout the state. It is his opinion that public welfare and safety demands a sane enforcement of this law, if such disasters as the Berea and Shreve school bus crashes in 1930 are to be forestalled. There is also the possibility of jeopardizing any liability insurance carried by failure of the drivers to be legally registered. The proper registration is a protection and advantage to a driver as well as the state.

There are 120 chauffeur examiners throughout the state, one or more to the county, which makes it an easy matter to comply with the law, and local officials will be rendering a service to both the public and the individual driver by seeing that the law is enforced, making such enforcement a corrective measure rather than of prosecution.

RAMSOWER WRITES OF EXTENSION COST

While the county commissioners were hearing the opinions of taxpayers in regard to the appropriation for 1932 some difference of opinion existed concerning the amount of money paid for extension work and for Stanley Lewis, county farm agent.

Ira S. Cochran, Charles Cromley and John Stevenson submit the following statement from H. C. Ramsower, director of extension service.

The Ohio State University College of Agriculture, Extension Service.

Columbus, O. January 27, 1932

Mr. Ira Scobhorn, Ashville, Ohio. Dear Mr. Scobhorn:

You ask concerning the appropriations made for extension work in Pickaway County and how this money is expended.

Pickaway County appropriates $4,000 and the University contributes $1,900 from state and federal funds. Of this amount $5,000 goes to the salary of Mr. Lewis $600 to the upkeep of his auto, and $300 to miscellaneous office expenses.

We are pleased to furnish you with this information. Very sincerely yours, H. C. RAMSOWER, Director.

EAGER TO TELL ABOUT HER STOMACH

"I want to tell others about my experience with Pope's Digestive Tablets," says Mrs. B. Eastman, 1200 California St., Denver, Colo.

"I tried a lot of things for my indigestion, but none of them did any good. Then a friend persuaded me to take a few tablets of this wonderful preparation."

"Now I even eat cabbage without any distress afterwards. It used to cause real suffering. I am not nearly so nervous as I used to be; feel much stronger and better in every way."

A medicine must have real merit to bring forth enthusiastic statements like this. And when not one, but hundreds, even thousands, are telling the same story of success, there seems no reason to doubt the day-in and day-out reliability of Pope's Digestive Tablets to help stomach sufferers.

These harmless, candy-like tablets relieve the heartburn, nausea, gas, belching, headaches, dizziness and other symptoms of indigestion.

Try a piece of this pie.

I wish I could. But pie crust doesn't agree with me.

My pie crust will agree with you. It's made with Crisco—it's a digestible fat.

Oh, maybe I've been using too cheap a fat.

There's nothing like Crisco. It's so sweet and digestible.

Well, your pie crust is certainly light. I'm going to try Crisco.

FOODS THAT CONTAIN VITAMIN G PREVENT PELLAGRA

"My husband's pay has been cut from $18 a week to $15. We have six children under 14 years old. How can I feed them properly?" asks the mother of this family, in a letter to the Bureau of Home Economics of the U. S. Department of Agriculture. The family lives in a section of the country where pellagra is common—and pellagra is one of the diseases that occurs among people who have too little of certain necessary kinds of foods. It has been found by the U. S. Public Health Service that people who have enough food, including plenty of milk, lean meat, fish, plenty of green leafy vegetables, or tomatoes, do not have pellagra. On the other hand, a diet which consists wholly of cornmeal, fat meat, rice or potatoes, and molasses or syrup, as in some sections of the country, is likely to produce pellagra. To be good, a diet should include cheese, eggs, and vegetables of green or yellow color, in addition to milk, bread and cereals, lean meat, (fat meat will not prevent pellagra), and tomatoes. But what is to be done when the family pocketbook can not be stretched to cover all those items? Many pellagra-preventive foods have been found to contain vitamin G, and although the exact relation of vitamin G to pellagra has not been finally determined, some very significant experiments have been made. In the Bureau of Home Economics laboratory, for example, white rats, when kept on a diet which lacked vitamin G, have been found to develop symptoms much like the symptoms of human beings with pellagra. When those same rats were changed to a wholesome diet, including foods that contain vitamin G, they recovered and seemed to become normal, healthy little animals.

Therefore, nutritionists conclude, you must have vitamin G in your diet. And because the foods containing this vitamin cost more than some other kinds of food, efforts have been made to discover cheaper forms of such necessities as milk, for example.

This search has led to the recommendation of dried skim milk for families where fresh milk or evaporated milk is out of the question. Bakery shops and ice cream makers buy dried skim milk by the barrel, and sometimes will sell it by the pound at 8 to 15 cents. This is a cheap way to provide protection against pellagra. One pound of dried skim milk, with water added, will make nearly 5 quarts of liquid skim milk which is equal in food value, to the same quantity of fresh skim milk. It can be used in cooked foods, especially, but can be used to drink if whole milk can not be had. Lean meat, liver, poultry or fish may not be expensive if you live in the country or a small town, and even in the cities all sorts of meat are nowadays cheaper than they have been for years. Cheap cuts of lean beef or lean pork, chickens, or canned salmon, or, in some sections, wild game, will vary the diet enough to prevent pellagra. And tomatoes, good for so many other things, contribute to this purpose, too.

In some tests in the pellagra regions, milk with breakfast cereal, corn meal mush, or still better, with boiled whole wheat—has been found to reduce the prevalence of pellagra. Eggs or cheese, as well as meat or fish, and tomatoes, also served the purpose.

In other words the families who kept a cow and chickens and had a garden could easily protect themselves from pellagra.

RECIPES

Scalloped Salmon
2 one-pound cans salmon
1-4 cup butter, margarin, or other fat
1-4 cup flour.
3 cups milk
1 1-2 teaspoons salt
2 cups bread crumbs

Break the salmon into pieces and remove the bones. Prepare a sauce of the fat, flour, milk, and salt. Place a layer of the salmon in the bottom of a greased baking dish, add some of the sauce, then another layer of salmon, and so on until all the ingredients are used. Cover the top with the bread crumbs and bake in a moderate oven until the sauce bubbles up and the crumbs are brown.

Mixed Onions in Tomato Sauce
10 medium-sized onions
3 pints canned tomatoes
1 1-2 bay leaf
1-2 teaspoon celery seed
3 cloves
3 tablespoons flour
3 tablespoons melted butter, margarine, or other fat
3 teaspoons salt
Pepper

Skin the onions, cut in half, simmer in lightly salted water for 10 minutes, drain, and put in a large baking dish. Cook the tomatoes with the bay leaf, celery seed, and cloves for 10 minutes, and strain. Blend the flour and melted fat, add to the tomato juice with the salt and pepper, and mix well. Pour over the onions, cover and cook until the onions are tender, about 1 hour. Seasoning can, of course, be varied as desired.

Skim Milk from Skim Milk Powder
For convenience in measuring allow 1-4 cup of powder for each cup of water, or one cup of powder for each quart of water. These proportions make a product that is somewhat richer in solids than fresh skim milk and that can be used in cooking just as fresh skim milk is used. Measure the water into a bowl, sprinkle the powder over the surface a little at a time, beating with an egg whip, a dower beater or a fork. Use either cold or warm water. Boiling water is likely to make the powder lumpy.

This method should be used for making cornmeal mush of skim milk powder and in any other recipe that calls for the "reconstituted milk." For flour mixtures, it is sometimes more convenient to mix and sift the skim milk powder with the dry ingredients, and substitute water for milk.
Creamy Rice Pudding
6 tablespoons uncooked rice
2-3 cup sugar
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon nutmeg or cinnamon
2 quarts milk made of
2 cups skim milk powder
2 quarts cold water
Wash the rice, add it and the remaining ingredients to the milk reconstituted, and stir the mixture. Pour into a baking dish and bake 2 or 3 1-2 hours in a slow oven. Stir occasionally while baking.

Cream of Vegetable Soup
1-4 cup finely chopped rutabaga turnip
1-4 cup finely chopped carrots
1-4 cup finely chopped onion
1-4 cup finely chopped celery
1-4 cup melted fat
2 tablespoons flour
2 quarts milk made of
2 cups skim milk powder
2 quarts water
1 teaspoon salt

Cook the finely chopped vegetables in the fat for 10 minutes, add the flour and stir until all are well blended. In the meantime, heat the reconstituted milk in a double boiler, add a little of it to the vegetable mixture, stir well, combine with the rest of the milk, add the salt, and cook for 10 minutes. The flavor is improved if the soup is allowed to stand for a short time to blend before serving. Reheat and serve. Other combinations of vegetables can, of course, be had.

Changing Tastes

THERE is real news value in two items that appeared in commercial reports of the past week, the items being to the effect that toothbrush sales are increasing while sales of virtually all other commodities have been declining and that the piano accordion has usurped the place of the saxophone as the most popular musical instrument of the moment.

Tooth brush sales are a barometer of the success of health education in the schools, of Americanization efforts and of rising living standards. Like the bathtub, the toothbrush was once the luxury of the rich, or, as many nonusers believed, the burden of the rich. Within recent years school hygiene has made rapid strides in teaching health and care of the teeth, which means future generations with healthier and cleaner mouths, and, consequently, healthier bodies.

Elevation of the piano accordion in popular estimation is one of the wonders of the evolution of modern music. Not so very long ago it was the instrument of gypsies, loggers and immigrant laborers and more or less looked upon by 100 per cent Americans, some of whom even then harbored a secret love of its melodious strains. Those who have never been converted to the saxophone will not lament the waning popularity of that instrument, now second in popularity to the piano accordion on the basis of sales.

Radio, the talkies, extension of the school orchestra idea and changing musical tastes of the public explain the falling off in sales of violins, saxophones and other orchestral instruments.

Ruralites Can't See It

DAYS are getting long again for the annual revival of the "spring argument" on the relative merits and demerits of daylight saving. The revival is inevitable, and it is just as inevitable that history will be repeated by part of the country going for daylight saving time and part clinging to standard time as to an ancient religious custom.

On this national issue the country is divided between the urban and the rural population with relatively few defections on either side. Oddly enough for those who waste the most daylight hours daylight saving time holds the strongest appeal, and vice versa. Neither position is hard to understand.

But this controversy over summer working hours is not as young as most people think. It started in 1784 when Benjamin Franklin preached early rising to the Parisians to economize on candles. Perhaps it was Franklin's habitual facetiousness that prevented adoption of the plan at that time, but in 1906 it was resurrected by a wealthy English builder, William Willett. He published pamphlets, delivered lectures, organized societies and lobbied for legislation. Feeling ran high throughout the British Isles, with the urban pitted against the rural and the latter coming out victorious.

National observance or enforcement seems to be impossible, but there seems to be no valid objection to local option, although some protest to even that is heard from the farmers.

Canada Leads in Gold

SLOWLY the United States, once the leading gold-producing country of the world, is falling behind in this industry. Years ago Transvaal crowded it out of first place, and last year several gold rushes and higher prices clinched Canada's hold on second place, first won in 1930 the United States dropping back to a poor third.

The production of the three countries in 1931 was: Transvaal, 9,950, 282 ounces; Canada, 2,679, 728 ounces; United States, 1,250, 000 ounces (estimated). The Dominion's increase over 1930 was 27 per cent, while that of the Transvaal was only 1.4 per cent and that the United States 6 per cent.

This does not mean that the United States is definitely out of the running. There is still gold in them that western hills and still men prospecting for it. Another bonanza and a good market could bring the leadership back. Then there is always the chance of the ore in the other countries playing out.

Last year was a good year for gold. The precious metal was virtually the only metal that was bringing higher prices. It had the undivided attention of free-lance prospectors, exploration companies and grub-stakers. It has been one prosperous industry among many broken ones.

Nearly everybody observed Thrift Week this year without trying.

COPYRIGHT 1931 BY FAITH BALDWIN — DISTRIBUTED BY KING FEATURES SYNDICATE, INC.

SYNOPSIS

Young and beautiful Fanchon Meredith leaves San Francisco by airplane to escape arrest in connection with a murder in which her sweetheart, Tony, is implicated. She had not known that he was a gunman. Evelyn Howard, whom Fanchon had met on a voyage from Hawaii, is aboard. She is enroute to New York to live with her wealthy aunt, Mrs. Allison Carstairs, whom she has never seen. The plane crashes and all but Fanchon are killed. Grasping the opportunity to start life anew, Fanchon goes to the Carstairs home as Evelyn. Mrs. Carstairs affection wins her heart. At Southampton, awaiting the arrival of her son, Collin, Mrs. Carstairs warns Fanchon not to take him seriously.

CHAPTER XIII

The man who approached her was very tall and broad shouldered. He was quite dark, with thick black hair and dark eyes and a small mustache. He walked as lightly as a cat, he wore slightly shabby, expensive clothes beautifully, and he was very good-looking and in a very bad temper. He walked directly to Fanchon, stopped beside her and stared down at her.

"I suppose you're Evelyn Howard," he said.

"Why, yes," Fanchon told him still dazed from the sun and her halt sleep.

He remarked, abruptly, "We may as well have it out before my mother comes. I don't know what she has told you. I would rather tell you myself anyway. I am perfectly well aware of your reasons for coming here. But dealing with a sentimental woman is one thing and dealing with me is another. I'd like you to understand once and for all that I am quite conscious of your game and that I will block it at every turn, if possible. If my mother hasn't sense enough to see you are here under entirely false pretenses, I have!"

The color drained from Fanchon's face. It isn't possible! she told herself wildly. For the last week or so, with returning strength, there had come to her a feeling of peace and of safety. And day by day she had grown fonder of, and more grateful to, Jennie Carstairs. She realized now with a wrenching pang that the great price of discovery and the relinquishing of her masquerade would not be the danger threatening her from exposure, the danger from Tony himself, but the disillusion, the pain and righteous anger which she must face from Jennie Carstairs.

This was Collin then.

She stared at him. He pulled up a low rustic bench, sat down, pulled a flat gold cigarette case from his pocket, opened it and meticulously offered it to Fanchon. Mechanically she shook her head, fighting for composure, for words. And waiting for him to go on to tell her how he knew what he knew.

"Now," said Collin Carstairs, lighting a cigarette and expelling the first blue smoke. "now, we may as well have it out! I know, of course, that coming to New York under my mother's protection was infinitely better than indefinite school teaching. I don't blame you for jumping at the opportunity. I merely wanted to explain to you that my mother has no right to suppose she has—well, I am unalterably opposed to this arrangement. Cousin Evelyn," he added, satirically.

Fanchon's breath came easier. So, his quarrel was not with her, not with Fanchon Meredith, not with "Tony's broad," not with her masquerading and her deception, but with Evelyn! Well, as Evelyn, she could deal with him! In her relief, excitement and a sort of fighting spirit flooded her very veins. She sat up, erect, in the swing and regarded him.

"I marvel," Collin remarked, "that you were permitted to teach school so long."

The wind ruffled her blue-black curls, the warm golden skin was flushed with rose, and the strange turquoise eyes were dark with anger and emotion.

"I marvel," Collin remarked, regarding her with frank, if unwilling admiration, "that you were permitted to teach school so long! Four years, was it not? And I know that Hawaiian moans are very lovely and young men very susceptible. I've been in Hawaii," he said.

"Are you trying to pay me compliments?" Fanchon demanded.

It was her first word to him. He flicked the ashes from his cigarette and smiled. Her voice was as lovely as she, he admitted ungrudgingly. And there was a flash of steel through all the loveliness and softness of voice and person. Here was, he admitted to himself further, no simpering, silly, gushing little creature, as he had allowed himself to imagine she would be from her letters to his mother and his general mental impression of her, but a very beautiful and probably intelligent girl. An enemy worthy of his mettle.

"I'm not complimentary," he replied, and smiled, "I'm merely truthful. You are far better to look upon than I dreamed. Very easy on the eyes. But that doesn't alter the case."

"I take it," Fanchon said, demurely, "that you are not beside yourself with rapture at my appearance here. Why? What have I done to you? Are you afraid? I mocked him, knowing better, that I will rob you of any of your rightful inheritance?"

His face darkened. He was really, she thought, an astonishingly handsome man. She hated him and despised him but his good looks could not be denied. They looked at one another with hostility, she with hot resentment, he with cool rancor. The very air of the rose garden, fragrant, soft, sea-washed, sun-steeped, seemed suddenly electric with this curious and out of proportion antagonism between two young people.

If we have to cut wages to cut expenses let's keep the police out of the cut but have a few switches put on the electric lights at the school houses on S. Court-st. so the lights can be turned off rather than to let each light run 365 days per year.

If the various and different departments of the city and county would cut down expenses as they have had to do in their own homes under the present conditions which may last for another four or five years, we can keep on going, but we must all economize."

Yours truly,

A Jolt.

Circleville, O., Jan 27 1932.

I see that Fred C. Clark has been instrumental in securing the Wilson Movie Picture for Circleville, and that the same will be exhibited at the Clifton Theatre in Circleville soon and that the proceeds will go to charity.

I want to congratulate him on securing this picture not only because it is a good thing to do in the interest of charity, but because it will afford our Circleville and Pickaway folks an opportunity to see history actually being made.

This picture was shown some weeks ago at Memorial Hall in Columbus, and Mrs. Gerhardt and I had the good fortune and pleasure of seeing it produced there.

It is, of course, a silent moving picture—the talkie having been invented since the Wilson films were taken. However, every scene shown is fully described and explained and this return seemingly to a silent movie only adds to the historical interest of the picture.

The picture illustrates various scenes actually having taken place during the Wilson administration, and this, of course, means that many World War-time activities are shown.

The picture, while called the Wilson picture, nevertheless features three other presidents, two of whom preceded President Wilson, namely, Theodore Roosevelt and William H. Taft, and one who followed him, namely, Calvin Coolidge. Theodore Roosevelt is shown making a Liberty Bond drive speech. Mr. Taft in some war-time activity, and Mr. Coolidge as heading the reception to President Wilson while Governor of Massachusetts on the occasion of President Wilson's first return from the peace convention in Europe. President Wilson is seen leaving on the steamer for Europe to attend the peace convention in Paris. He is shown riding with the King of England and the President of France, respectively. There are many scenes taken of the peace convention and he is shown signing the peace treaty at Versailles.

These scenes were not especially created for movie picture purposes, but are actual pictures of various scenes in Washington, D. C. and in Europe wherein the President, and others engaged in prosecuting the great war are shown actually doing things governmental. General Pershing and many other generals and dignitaries are shown in the several foreign scenes. Also one scene of actual fighting wherein a shell strikes explosives and kills and wounds some soldiers.

These films were taken, of course, at different places and times and have been merged together, making a chronological connection of sequence as to places and times etc.

What would we not give to see George Washington as he actually lived and went about the performance of his duties during those Revolutionary days of almost a century and a half ago? We must be satisfied with pictures of him, and stories of his life and exploits. Not so with the great figures who participated in the great World War. Future generations will be able to actually see these great characters as though they were living. And yet no future generation will be able

At the Circleville Theatres

AT THE GRAND

"The Arizona Cowboys," booked for the Grand Theatre for matinee and night Sunday, Jan. 31, come to this city with an unexcelled reputation for presenting one of the most novel stage presentations in America; wherever the company has appeared the theatres have been packed and the tour has been one of triumphant success since leaving Lone Wolf Ranch a year ago.

The company is headed direct for the large eastern cities for long engagements and will appear here only on the dates mentioned. To those who follow the news of the theatre the sensation created by the company's appearance is well known, and the personnel of the troupe is already well known throughout the land. Members of the company are Miss Dolly O'Dare and Miss Billie Blair, who hold the title "Arizona's Sweethearts," contracted by the Governor of that state; El Paso Al Mee, who drums as no drummer ever drummed before and whose singing of comic songs is a riot. Arizona Kid Hank Borst is the top tenor who sings those cowboy songs and gets so much fan mail.

Texas Jack Humbert handles a banjo like nobody's business, and adds plenty to the singing program; Buck Weber sings, presides at the piano and is a wizard with the piano-accompanist. Hey Hey Casey adds to the entire musical comedy with plenty of riotous comedy.

AT THE CLIFTONA

Quite the most delightful screen comedy to come to Circleville in many a day is "Many a Slip," the Universal picture at the Cliftona today and tomorrow.

With a story filled with a spicy quality of humor and an unusually capable cast, the production goes along at a lulling pace which is the goal of comedy makers, and the result is a laughing success which is altogether enjoyable.

Low Ayres, who has suddenly become one of the most popular of leading men, plays the principal male role in a manner which will undoubtedly increase his growing circle of admirers, and Joan Bennett brings her blonde beauty and her rare ability as a comedienne to the leading feminine part. The third member of the triumvirate of stars heading the troupe is already well known throughout the land. Members of the company are Miss Dolly O'Dare and Miss Billie Blair, who hold the title "Arizona's Sweethearts," contracted by the Governor of that state; El Paso Al Mee, who drums as no drummer ever drummed before and whose singing of comic songs is a riot. Arizona Kid Hank Borst is the top tenor who sings those cowboy songs and gets so much fan mail.

AT THE GRAND

Archie Mayo, who directed Marian Marsh in "Under Eighteen," her first starring vehicle, now at the Grand Theatre, directed her less than a year ago in her first featured role as Thelma, in support of John Barrymore in "Svengali."

Mr. Mayo, who has directed many screen celebrities, was among the first to acclaim the petite blonde as a potential star. "Her feeling for drama was so keen," he says, "her response to suggestion so intelligent, and her sensitiveness to the character she was attempting to portray, so sure, that I was convinced of the rare talent which she abundantly displays as the pathetic heroine of 'Under Eighteen.'"

Miss Marsh is supported in "Under Eighteen" by Warren William, recent Broadway stage recruit to the screen; Regis Toomey of "The Finger Points" fame; Anita Page, Joyce Compton, Emma Dunn, J. Farrell MacDonald, Judith Vosselli, Norman Foster, Dorothy Appleby, Maude Egan, Clarie Dodd, Murray Kinnell, Paul Porcasi, Mary Doran and Walter McGrath.

Fifty and Fit

A MAN is as old—or as young—as his organs.

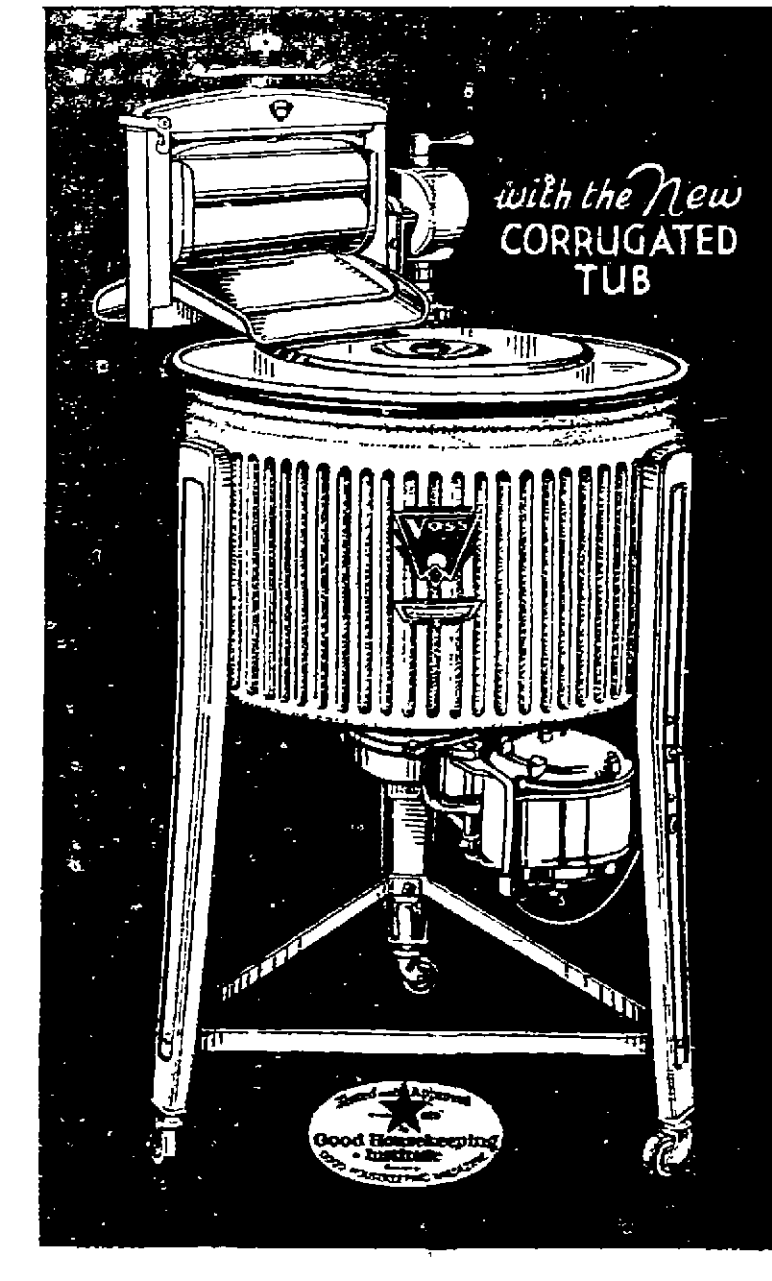

At fifty, you can be in your prime.

Why go along with "fairly good health" when you might be enjoying vigor you haven't felt for years?

There's a simple little thing anyone can do to keep the vital organs stimulated, and feel fit all the time. People don't realize how sluggish they've grown until they've tried it. The stimulant that will stir your system to new life is Dr. Caldwell's syrup pepsin. It will make a most amazing difference in many ways.

This famous doctor's prescription is a delicious syrup made with fresh herbs, active senna, and pure pepsin. It starts its good work with the first spoonful. That's all you need to drive away the dullness and headache of a bilious spell, and rid the system of that slow poison that saps your strength. It's better than a tonic for tired bowels, and unlike habit-forming laxatives you can take it freely or give it to any child. And it isn't expensive.

Get some syrup pepsin today, and take a little tonight. Don't wait until you're sick to give your system this wonderful help. You can avoid those spells of biliousness or constipation. A spoonful every now and then is better than constant worry about the condition of your bowels, or fear of auto-intoxication as you grow older. Dr. Caldwell's syrup pepsin protects the system. All druggists keep this preparation.

LETTERS TO EDITOR

To the Editor of The Circleville Publishing Co.

I for one, want to go on record not in favor of cutting the policeman's wages but would like to see a better police department than we have at the present time. As for the firemen they only work half time and can pick up extra money while not on duty at other jobs which I think they all do.

The policemen are on the job 365 days out of each year and are always the target for the crooks. How many of the business men today would be willing to take a police job if it was offered to them?

When you want a policeman you want one in a hurry, then that policeman has to fix the crook and you say well that's his duty and what he is hired for. Stop a minute and think would you want to face the crook on the street? You passed up the job when you called for the police.

So many people do not speak so well of the fellow on the police force they call Bugs. Let me say a way of thinking he does not have to have 10 feet of snow to place a crook in. He is on the job a night's big part of the time and I think ought to be given a bigger pay check than any other man on the force. We need a lot of men like Bugs on the police force and especially at the present time. Pay decent living wages and you can get good men for the police force and we need a real police force here in Circleville. Small wages bring small results, good wages bring good results. We need an efficient and well by Scoot-co Superintendent E. O. McCowen of Portsmouth.

"Eight per cent of the school children in our county are not attending," McCowen told the governor.

Officials of Cleveland, Cincinnati, Akron, Dayton, Columbus, Canton, Toledo and Youngstown who called for the special session, found little encouragement in a statement given out to the press after the meeting.

His statement that "the solution is not in granting municipalities the authority to issue relief bonds because you cannot sell the bonds" dashed the hopes of a few cities which have been clamoring for a re-enactment of the Pringle-Roberts "charity bond" law.

APPEALS SITUATION

"I appreciate the gravity of the situation, but it is very largely an urban problem," the governor said. "To work out a solution is perhaps more involved than was realized by those who visited me."

Promising to give his "undivided attention" to the requests made, he added that "I shall try to work out some program by which some relief can be given."

A suggestion that the state issue $750,000 in state bonds, the money to be turned over to the state relief committee, was presented to the governor in yesterday's meeting. The constitution, it was pointed out, permits such action.

If the legislature is called into session, another proposal said, the program should include provisions making available the proceeds of certain existing or additional state-wide taxes.

Although a demand has long been made by some groups for additional taxes on utilities, no specific article or class was mentioned in the proposal.

OMIT CONTROVERSY

Rather than involve themselves in a controversy over whom to tax, those at the meeting voted to leave that question to the governor.

Emergency permission to school authorities to furnish relief to needy school children also should be granted, it was decided. A plan such as was used last year when $80,000 was appropriated for that purpose attracted general approval.

the afternoon, and yesterday's awards were no less interesting than on previous days. At the same time a number of women were given the dishes Mrs. Thurn had cooked.

The basket winners Thursday were Mrs. J. R. Noecker, 125 Watt-st., Mrs. M. J. Collins, 360 Watt-st., Mrs. J. W. Trimmer, Mrs. W. S. Gearhart, 162 Watt-st., Mrs. Ada Wilson, 326 E. Franklin-st. and Mrs. G. C. Hammel, 650 N. Court-st.

The croquettes prepared by Mrs. Thurn were given to Mrs. Lawrence Hoover, R. F. D. 4, Ashville, the flowers, from Brehrer Greenhouses to Mrs. D. McNeal, Williamsport, and the decorated birthday ring was given to Mrs. William Reid, E. Union-st. and the plain birthday ring was given to Mrs. Snyder. These two ladies were given these gifts as a birthday present, as both were celebrating birthdays on Thursday.

The gifts and the printed recipes, however, are not the only things which the audience carries away. Judging from many comments overheard at yesterday's session, Circleville housekeepers are grateful to Mrs. Thurn for her inspiring help in their problems, her enthusiastic sponsoring of their jobs as housekeepers, and her advice and suggestions of every phase of home making.

The crowd at today's session, which is the last one promised to be the largest yet. Not only were there an entirely new set of recipes demonstrated, but the awarding of the fine major gifts, as well as the market baskets to be made

"I'm Cook enough to Know..."

"WHAT I know about making cigarettes...doesn't amount to anything at all! But I'm a good enough cook to be sure of this...You can't get a thing to taste good...unless you use fine ingredients.

"And what's more...you have to know just how to combine them.

"It must have taken an amazing knowledge of tobacco flavors...to work out that recipe for Chesterfield's good taste.

"Just as in a pudding...the proof of any cigarette...lies in the taste.

"Recently I tried Chesterfields for the first time. Right away, I knew that such taste and fragrance had to come from grade A ingredients...to say nothing of a carefully worked out recipe for combining them.

"Then, too, I found Chesterfields milder. I didn't know a cigarette could be so mild and at the same time so good-tasting.

"And have you noticed the paper? Pure white. I'm told it's the purest paper that can be bought.

"Even the package is whiter and cleaner-looking. Little things, I suppose, but I'm cook enough to know that purity and cleanliness must count in cigarettes too."
